

A Thames Valley Ancient Egypt Society Public Lecture

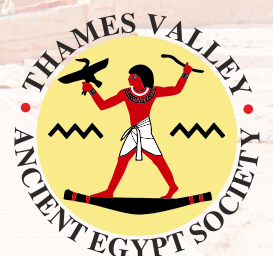

The First Egyptologists

By Professor Alan Lloyd
Saturday 8 Dec 2018
1.30 for 2.00 pm

Egyptology starts with the Ancient Egyptians. A particularly interesting case is Herodotus who wrote at the time when Pharaonic culture was almost dead. This lecture will explore aspects of ancient Egyptology to determine what these writers thought they were doing and how well, or badly, they did it.
