

A Thames Valley Ancient Egypt Society Public Lecture

To hear, or to divide words? The changing face of Egyptian justice, 2700-1700BCE

A new analytical approach allows us to reconstruct the judicial landscape before the New Kingdom in unprecedented detail. This talk brings it to light and uncovers a revolution in Egyptian justice that led to the emergence of 'lawyers' as a professional class and 'law' as a definable concept.

By Dr Alex Loktionov

Saturday November 10th 2018

1.30 for 2.00pm

Free to members, Visitors: £3.00
Oakwood Centre, Headley Road, Woodley, RG5 4JZ
A TVAES lecture www.tvaes.org.uk

www.tvaes.org.uk